Adaptation and dramatisation by the BBC of Scherro in E Flat. Op 4 (Brahma)—
Such writers as Thackeray, Trollope, Dickens and London Symphony Orchestra. Jane Austen has introduced to many listeners 11.29 WEATHER REPORT. books which they would not otherwise have 11.30 CLOSE DOWN. thought of opening, as well as giving devotees new enjoyment of the genius of their favourite authors.

Tomorrow evening at 8.30, Dickens' famous novel "Our Mutual Friend" (of which Hesketh Pearson wrote: "The book is packed full genius and contains his best social satire") is Smith (from "Sweet Yesterday") brought to life over Radio Hongkong in the first Hoolis Nenn-Tango (Ferrazano)-episode of a twelve part serial recorded by the Webster Booth; Al Fresco (Vic-BBC. Richard Attenborough, who has played so His Orch.; Sweet Yesterday (Lenmany outstanding parts in British films, takes the retie lead, and Victoria Hopper, also well-known in pic- Minuet (Besly)-Anne Ziegler and tures and on the English stage, plays Bella Wilfer to his John Harmon.

On Tuesday at 9.11 p.m. there will be a recital of piano music by Bach, Schubert, Schumann and Brahms. Bernard Leung is the pianist, and those who listen regularly to the studio concerts may remember his previous performances in December 1950 and February of this year.

"La Traviata"---which in English means "The Strayed One"-is the opera from which excerpts have been chosen for this week's "Ring Up the Curtain" programme at 9.45 p.m. on Thursday. Verdi based this work on Dumas' "The Lady of the Camellias," and the libretto was written by Piave. In this particular production, Violetta is sung by Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, soprano, with Murray

Dickie, tenor, as Alfredo, her lover. The Second Test Match between England, and South Africa continues at Lord's today and Monday and Tuesday of next week. Commentaries on play will be relayed by Radio Hongkong direct from London at 9.15 this evening and Monday, and a recorded relay comes at 10.15 p.m. on Tuesday.

(Broadcasting on a frequency of 845 kilocycles per second and on 9.52 megocycles per second in the 31 metre band).

No Change Of Heart In Moscow

Paris, June 22. The collapse of, the Big deputies' conference that Russia is not ready to improve relations between East and West, British Under-Secretary of State, Mr Ernest Davies, said today.

"The West has been forced to realise that Russia will not change her policies," the British delegate to the four-Power talks told reporters. "But the door is still open for a Foreign Ministers'

Mr Davies said: "One can still hope that Russia will ultimately see that a full-dress meeting of the Foreign Ministers is in her own interests. Russia has succeeded to a certain extent in her attempt to slow down the Western defence effort in general, especially regarding German rearma-

"But when Russia saw the West firm in rofusing to accept the Atlantic Pact on the final agenda, she saw the conference was impossible. As a result, we can new go ahead with the Western defence."

WELL AWARE Mr Davies spoke to newsmen in his hotel suite. He said if Pact and United States bases the Russian Forcign Minister, at the final conference, would then try to interpret the "disagreed Item" as an excuse to discuss the "substance" of the Atlantic Pact. "This would have been impossible, and Russia was well aware of it," he added. -Mr Davies said the collapse of the deputies' talks, which began on March 5 and tinued through '74 plenary sessions, should not be followed by further deterioration of selations between the great Powers.—United Press.

VIETNAMESE ATTACKED

Hanol, June 22. Vietminh troops last night attacked eight villages defendby Victnamese partisans about '20" miles northeast : of Hanoi, the French Army authorities announced today. No details were released.

which led to similar purges in other satellite countries—the tensions caused

within the regime by an economic programme geared to the demands of the Soviet Union. Heavy industry is being expanded with little regard to the needs of the mass of consumers and at the expense of labour standards. Col-lectivisation of agriculture is pressed forward and exports of food are maintained at the cost of shortage at home.

Hungary's resources of manpower and materials are strained. There is inevitably, as a result of all this, an atmosphere of suspicion and complaint and a search for scapegoats. There is anxiety about where the subservience

of the Hungarian economy to the calls

of the Soviet Union is leading Hungary. The mood is natural and could bode no good to Hungary's masters.

So the purge is ordered; so the trial is staged of the Catholic leader. Whether any active opposition identifiable as the beginnings of Titoism had already developed is not clear. It would accord with precedent for Moscow to direct forestalling action against those elements in the regime regarded as more

nationally minded and so less trustworthy than others. Whatever satisfaction the events may give in Moscow

they can only widen the gap between people and Government in Hungary.

Thousands of families are being uprooted at short notice from their homes and settled in the country in conditions of squalor. By this brutal means the Government, whose building programme is backward, makes accommodation for industrial workers.

Probably this is a foretaste of the treatment that all members of the intelligentsia and professional classes of old Hungary may expect when the regime has trained sufficient Communists to replace them. The greatest purge has yet to come.

Barr Takes With MacArthur China Policy

Washington, June 22.

Maj-General David Barr, who headed American military advisory mission to Nationalist China shortly before that country was overrun by the Communists, sharply disagreed with General Douglas MacArthur today about the advisability of permitting Nationalist troops to attack South China.

"I don't think we should do it," he said, adding that it would require terrific involvements in furnishing the Nationalists with supplies and transport. Any such invasion would do little to lift Communist pressure from the. American troops in Korea.

For while there was no room in his prim existence for love, wife of family, there was room for friendship. With Pauli, for instance, a handsome charming barrister whom Butler met in New Zenland, he divided his private income. He dipped into his capital to finance Pauli's wildest commercial schemes—only to find out that, all along, Pauli had been a richer man than he. It was a sad disaside.

The thought.

"I have been to see the Rossetti exhibition and am pleased to find it more odious than I had even dared to hope. I met kossetti once; there were three besides myself. I disliked them all very much, but Rossetti the most."

Butler's ear for the comic, which might have made him a novelist, caught this:

The Shadow Over U.S. Boxing

By J. L. MANNING

Americans have mastered the art of ceremony. It was they who perfected the delightful pageantry of strewing with tons of paper the paths of conquering heroes.

They were sweeping the streets of Chicago when I arrived. Its citizens had been urged to out-do New York's 2,800 tons for General MacArthur.

But at Soldiers' Field, the stadium was half full. The General gave a rouging speech, telling American mothers they were wasting their sons. Then everybody cheered, and the band played Good-night, Irene.

Next day, I read in the papers that the General was being shocked me. It will shock the colonel's argument is offered the job of either Presi- you, too. offered the job of either Presi- you, too. dent Truman or "Happy"

HAIRCUT COSTS MORE When I left America Chandler was heading for the same fate the General-with this difference: he could not, after being relieved of his post, fly his own flag outside New York's Waldorf-Astoria, the world's largest hotel, where I had a haircut for 14s, but bought a

One Cowes yachtsman, comparing costs, told me that before the war he had sailed a Teal (a five tonner) and reckoned it cost him £150 a year, including the wages of the paid hand. Today, a paid hand's wages are £0 a week and it would take another £200 a year to keep the boat. in trim.

Before the war, yachting was a week-day pastime for the very rich and there was no racing on Sundays; but now nt Cowes, as at other centres, the week-ends are the busiest times. The majority of yachtowners work their five-day week and travel from London or the Midlands for their sport

And it does help to keep the world's boxers and promoters crawling around on their hands and knees for recognition in New York.

MORE REASONABLE State control of racing more reasonable. There is not the same desire to fingerprint jockeys, but the constitutional position of this sport is similar to boxing.

Put it this way: Imagine that Suffolk County Council appointed a small number .of local government officers to oust the Jockey Club from Newmarket: that other county councils followed suit; and in this way racing become fully municipalised, with some control of the sport changing as a result of local elections. There are advantages of the American system, however. It has almost eliminated doping and switching.

All In White

Mini was dressed all in white, with a golden star in her hair. She was knitting. Hor fingers. though, were moving the needles with the most astonishing speed. It was hard to believe that fingers or needles could move so fast. But what was even more astonishing was the thing that she was making. It was a long. wide ribbon with all sorts of colours running up and down it. The colours seemed to glow. And the ribbon itself was so light and fine that the breeze made the were a bit of coloured cobweb. "Yes, my dear Mini," King Nep

"Please tell us," begged Hanid "It's for the rainbow. It's a rainbow patch!" she said.

Hundreds Of Years

Then Minerva explained exactly what she meant. "Years years - hundreds and hundreds of years ago the rainbow was first made. And for all those hundreds of years it has been hung out in the sky when the sun shines through the rain. Sometimes it is hung out right here. Sometimes it is hung out looking trim and fine. Then she stood up, put her needles and the ribbon in her sewing basket, and said: "I must be going to Honolulu where the rainbow is hanging now." The next instant she vanished.

"Of course," King Nep said to Knarf and Hanid, "I'm not positive that Mini really does make patches for the rainbow. But you can decide that for your-

In the hand shown today, North felt he had to bid clubs in order to give South the right amount of encouragement. North could hardly bid the nam all by himself, and it would be difficult for South to bid the slam if he feared the loss of one or two club tricks. At all events, the bidding helped West to select the best opening lead. He led a trump to reduce dummy's ruffing power.

East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returned a trump. This left dummy with only one trump, so South could count on ruffing only one club.
South could expect to discard the second of his three clubs on dummy's extra high heart. The third losing club would have to be discarded on a long spade or on a long heart. The burning question was: Which of the two suits could be established?

AFTER some thought, South saw that it would be a poor play to try the hearts first. If the hearts failed, he would then be unable tailed, he would then be unable to develop spades, since dummy would not have enough entries to cope with a 4-2 spade break.

However, if he tried the spades first and found out that the spades did not break, he would still be able to go after the hearts. In other words, South, could try, for both words. South could try for both suits if he began with the spades; but he could try for only one suit if he started with the hearts. As it happened, the spades broke quite satisfactorily. When both the opponents followed on the king and ace of spades, South was home. He continued by ruffing a spade, ran three rounds of hearts, ruffed another spade, and then got back to dummy with a club ruff to cash the inst spade. The slam contract was thus fulfilled.

Test, Second Day:

SOUTH AFRICANS FARE BADLY ON DAWAGED

London, June 22.

On a rain damaged pitch, South Africa fared badly on the second day of the second Test match against England at Lord's today, finishing 59 runs behind England's first innings total, with six second innings wickets in hand.

South Africa were dismissed for 115 runs in their first innings in reply to England's score of Bedser 311 runs, and after being forced to follow on had Statham lost four wickets for 137 runs by the close of play. Wardle

England's spin bowler, Roy Tattersall (Lan-Compton cashire), exploiting the rain-damaged pitch, was the wrecker of South Africa's hopes. He took seven wickets for 52 runs in the first innings, and in the second had secured two for 36 runs. This gives him the fine figures of nine wickets for 88 runs on the day.

LOSS TO BRITAIN The Fuel Minister made his cushloning statement about 3 Persian oil at a meeting tonight in Leicestershire. Mr Noel-Baker said, "If Persian supplies were totally shut down, 7.500,000 tons of crude oil and 22,000,000 tons of refined pro-3 duct would be lost.

"But against this loss the British companies could almost immediately find 6,000,000 tons of crude oll from other Sterling sources and could reline 8,000,000 tons more in other plants throughout the world. "This leaves a gap large in litself but small in relation to 7 the total world production of 3 more than 500,000,000 tons year. The investigations which have been made so far suggest that, taking stocks into account points. which would be taken to increase production, the actual deficit should not be more than 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 to 100. Associated Press.
